I am delighted to introduce myself as Alan James Lynch, Group Principal of the Doha Academy family of schools. I bring over 17 years of international education experience, with a career spanning the UK, the Caribbean and the Middle East, and extensive experience of leadership at school, group and system level.

I look forward to building upon the Doha Academy Group's historic successes and advancing our vision to become a global leader in providing an accessible, outstanding and all-encompassing education that reflects the principles and teachings of Islam. I am tremendously excited about the journey ahead and about what, together, we can achieve for every child across the Doha Academy family of schools.

I am delighted to introduce myself as Wendy Jones, Vice Principal of the Doha Academy family of schools. I bring extensive international education and senior leadership experience, with a career spanning British and international school contexts and a strong track record of leading sustained school improvement. My previous roles have included Vice Principal, Head of Secondary, Deputy Principal, Deputy Head Academic and Director of Sixth Form, with strategic responsibility for teaching and learning, assessment, quality assurance, pastoral provision, leadership development and whole-school improvement.

I am excited to contribute to the next phase of the Doha Academy Group's development and to our shared ambition of becoming a global leader in providing an accessible, outstanding and all-encompassing education that reflects the principles and teachings of Islam.

INTERNATIONAL LITERACY DAY SCIENCE

From Story to Science

As part of International Literacy Day, Doha Academy Salwa students explored how pollution affects food chains through reading and hands-on science. They investigated producers and consumers and discovered how pollution can move through a food chain, affecting organisms along the way.

A powerful reminder that when stories come to life, learning becomes discovery.
